The theme that served as the beacon of inspiration for the budding literary talents was the profound and timeless topic of "Truth and Non-Violence." This noteworthy event was a significant jewel in the crown of activities organized to commemorate the year's Gandhi Jayanti celebrations, a series brimming with cultural and intellectual enrichment.

The meticulous orchestration of this intellectual fiesta can be credited to the dedicated efforts of the debates and cultural committee of the college, who left no stone unturned in ensuring its resounding success. The participation of fifteen erudite students in the competition was nothing short of impressive.

At the helm of this literary voyage stood Mr. Gh Rasool Dar, assistant professor of Urdu, who skillfully navigated the proceedings as the moderator. His expertise and guidance added an extra layer of profundity to the event, elevating it to a platform of profound discourse.

The audience, a diverse gathering representing various departments of the college, bore witness to this intellectual spectacle. Students and faculty members alike congregated, their minds eager to absorb the thoughts and perspectives shared by the gifted essayists.

As the event drew to a close, Mr. Mohammad Idrees Bhat, assistant professor of English, took center stage to deliver a heartfelt vote of thanks. His eloquent words resonated with gratitude for all those who contributed to the success of the event.
